

Deborah Glover MBE. BSc (joint hon), Dip. CP & M, RN

Deborah is an independent medical editor who is also a qualified nurse, and director/editor, Primary Care Nursing Review. She was awarded an MBE for services to nursing and nursing journalism in the 2015 New Year Honours.

She qualified as an RGN from University College Hospital, London, gained a BSc from City University, and Diploma from London Guildhall University.

After qualifying she worked in several clinical areas before moving into practice development and then the King's Fund. After this, she became Clinical Editor at Nursing Times, Editor of the Journal of Wound Care, and then Editor of the Journal of Community Nursing.

In 2014, she and her business partner devised and launched Primary Care Nursing Review, a multi-platform digital-only journal for nurses and other health care professionals - <https://pcnr.co.uk/>

As an independent consultant she has undertaken NHS service reviews, lectured nationally and internationally, published widely and helped healthcare professionals write for publication. Her clients include key players in the wound care and dermatology industry, the NHS and individual health care practitioners. https://www.linkedin.com/profile/view?id=55462085&trk=nav\_responsive\_tab\_profile