

“KENDAL LYMPHOLOGY CENTRE” BECOMES “BAY LYMPHOLOGY”

Morecambe Bay Primary Care Collaborative guarantees the continuation of Lymphoedema services within Morecambe Bay from October 1st

Over the last decade, patients within the Morecambe Bay area suffering from the condition known as Lymphoedema have been treated by Kendal Lymphology Centre (KLC), a clinic founded and led by Nurse Consultant, Denise Hardy. This has provided a leading facility for the area which has been highly valued by both patients and the area’s GP Practices, hospital consultants and specialist nurses. The planned retirement of the founder meant that this service was under threat and the Morecambe Bay Primary Care Collaborative (MBPCC), a not-for-profit community interest company created by Local GP practices, have stepped in to take over the running of the clinic under the new name of ‘Bay Lymphology’. Key colleagues within the current service will continue to provide care and Denise Hardy will continue to be involved as a clinical expert, ensuring continuity of care and support for patients.

MBPCC, an experienced local provider of health care services, is committed to maintaining the high standards of care that KLC patients expect.

Andrew Giles, the CEO of MBPCC stated:

"We are delighted to take on the management of Bay Lymphology. Our team is dedicated to providing exceptional care and support to patients. We look forward to working closely with Denise and her team to ensure a seamless transition and continued high-quality care,"

Quote from Kendal Lymphology Centre;

"It has been a huge privilege to develop the essential provision of lymphoedema care for patients in the Morecambe Bay area. The fact that our local GP Federation recognises this and is committed to the continuation of the service is fantastic news for our patients and I have absolute confidence in MBPCC's ability to uphold standards of care, and to continue to support our community effectively," said Denise Hardy, Nurse Consultant Kendal Lymphology."
